ARTO | BRICK

Arto tells a story about a small shop two stories up from street level. It was on a dusty, bustling street in a time before escalators. The owner knew his location was not ideal even though the merchandise for sale was extraordinary. Because of this even if the customer just left the dust from his shoes in the store he was grateful for the visit and told the customer so.

We know there are many options out there so we thank you for taking the time to see what we offer.

A LONG-STANDING COMMITMENT TO

Stewardship

We at ARTO feel that stewardship, defined as "the careful and responsible management of something entrusted to one's care," is the most appropriate term to describe the values we hold dear. Like our customers, we make choices when selecting materials that make sense from both an environmental and an economic perspective.
